

July 2010

Epos, the iconic British speaker company, has released its flagship model Encore 50. It is now finally available for sale in Australia.

The speaker is the culmination of three years of development. There is no substitute for the pure musical involvement and enjoyment to be experienced when listening to the Encore 50.

Each and every part of the Epos flagship has been developed by the engineering team to achieve a new standard of excellence. From the original design concept through to the cabinet construction, to the speaker drive units, to the crossover and to the final voicing, the Encore 50 stands superior in every way.

The cabinet is tall and imposing yet exhibits elegance synonymous with Epos. Standing 1.2 metres tall it is deeper rather than wide and is supplied with a strong stylish painted MDF plinth to support its 50 Kg weight.

Full technical details can be read on the relevant product page on this website